

Networking and IP Fundamentals

Course length: 2-3 days

Content: Networking and IP Fundamentals is a preparation course giving the audience a theoretical understanding of LAN/WAN, switches and routers, IP addressing and protocols in general. This course can be provided as a prerequisites course to the BECS Engineering for those not familiar with data and network communication.

Intended audience:

- BD Business Development
- NE Network Engineers
- PD Product Development
- DM Department Managers
- NI Network Installation Staff
- NO Network Operation Staff
- SA System Administrators
- SP Service Providers
- CS Customer Support/Support Staff

Prerequisites: There are no prerequisites for this course.

Result: Upon completion of this course the students will have a good understanding of basic data and network communications.